

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Method for managing data with a telephone, and a telephone that manages data. A personal secret access code is entered into the telephone by a user of the telephone. The user may then create a private list that contains telephone numbers associated with the personal secret access code entered by the user. The user can also 5 create a public list that can be accessed by any user of the telephone. However, the telephone numbers contained in the private list may only be accessed by the user that entered the associated personal secret access code.

669250-42720460